Queen Victoria proposes to visit Ireland when chestnuts are ripe. She needn't wait. She can find plenty of ripe chestnuts (over-ripe) in Punch.

The reason why Hon, S. S. Cox persists in going to Turkey, is that Turkey would find it very inconvenient to come to him. Mahomet goes to the mountain, as usual.

The Miamia University is to be reopened for students in September. The citizens of Oxford cordially invite the alumni, students and friends of the institution to meet with them in a grand reunion on the campus June 16, 1885. A reception and banquet, with toasts and speeches, make part of the programme. We have a number of old Miami men in this city. Mr. Wm. D. Howells, our greatest American novelistand a good poet, as well-and Mr. Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune, America's greatest living journalist--were old students at Miami.

Lilian Whiting, in a letter speaking of the snobbishness of a certain class of Boston society, says that at a private musicale recently, a young lady who is a social favorite as well as a remarkably fine amateur pianist, was approached at the close of a brilliant performance by one of the grand and unapproachable dames, who condescended to say: "You play very well, You really must ask some one to introduce you to me." Lilian sto- appropriated that from Punch. It is one of Du Maurier's jokes, printed, with a cartoon, a year or two since. Lilian should not get away with other people's chest-

We learn from the Dunkirk Daily Oberver that the labor organizations of New York State will try to procure the nomination of Ex-Mayor Dr. John Swinburne, of Albany, as a candidate for governor. He is a Republican, and yet he always carries Democratic city whenever tha: is a candidate. The Observer says that the Doctor maintains a free hospital, at which any poor person sick or injured, is made welcome and cared, free of cost to the sufferer. From half a dozen to twenty or more cases are thus treated daily in the Swinburne dispensary, and every case thus treated makes new votes for the Doctor when he is running for office. Edward Solly has contributed to "Notes and Queries," London, an article in which he shows that what scientists now call microbes were known to the great, Dr. Johnson, more than a centry ago. He wrote to Mrs. Thrale, November 12, 1781, in regard to dysentery: "If Mr. will drink a great deal of water, the acrimony that corrodes his bowels will be diuted, if the cause be only acrimony; but I suspect dysenteries to be produced by animalculæ, which I know not how to kill." What Dr. Johnson called "animalcule" (the Philadelphia Bulletin states) the physicians of today called "microbes" and are ignorant of any methods of killing them. The Globe-Republic ventures to suggest modern saloon whisky as a "beverage" that will massacre them at wholesale, but it would probably kill the human animal also, or, to say the least, make him wish he were killed and out of his misery.

Some good man could earn a monumen (we are not financially prepared to say he would get it) if he would inaugurate, and prosecute to a successful termination, a cruade against the English sparrows that infest

There are worse things in Columbus than the sparrows. They seem to be unpopular, but we know of no good reason for it. They defend themselves with vigor and are somewhat pugnacious and aggressive. But so are newspaper men. Then they sing well. A sparrow orchestra makes rather better music than the usual Italian orchestra; it continues its concerts all the year round and the prima donna never gets a sore throat and "kicks." In summer the sparrows are a very good scavengers, picking up a good deal of refuse matter and getting away with it, therefore clearing the streets and purifying the atmosphere. The English sparrow is one of our "naturalized" citizens, he has come to stay and he has as much right here as anything else. And he came because he was brought here, against his will, and he stays because he wishes to.

Mr. W. L. Alden, of the editorial staff of the New York Times, contributes to The Current of May 23 the eleventh of that journal's series of papers on "The American Type." Mr. Alden is unwilling to admit that the American type yet exists, and gives reasons for his belief that it will require centuries to so amalgamate traits of foreign nations now combining in American society as to produce a distinct American type. The GLORE-REPUBLIC is inclined to agree with Mr. Alden. Even the American face is not yet sufficiently matured to be what might properly called a type. But when it becomes clearly out and crystalized it will be much like a Greek face, of the time of Homer, which face is not very dissimilar from the Roman face of the time of Cicero. Even now the portrait of the average American differs very little from the faces of the antique statues seen in the British Museum in London and the Louvre, in Paris.

And there is a good reason for this. Greece, at the period when she was the intellectual capital of the world drew the more intelligent and worthy of the world's people to Athens, and then followed a mixture of blood, which, in most favoring ircumstances, produced the highest re sults, at that time attainable. Homer and Pericles, arrayed in Yankee garb, with slouch hats, would now be taken, everywhere, for Americans.

And of Rome we may say the same. When she was the proud mistress of the world she greeted in her Forum the winnowings of all the nations, and these, re maining as citizens, intermarried with Romans and each other and gave to history and civilization the most refined and exalted specimens of the race in that

Like conditions now exist America. Our people are the choice gleanings of all portions of Europe; the hardiest and the most enterprising, as well as the most intelligent have come to us from England, Scotland, Ireland, Holland, Prussia, France, Italy, Spain, Norway, Sweden, and from farther East and South -from Asia and Africa-and have on this continent fraternized, commingled, and to a large extent, intermarried, and from these conditions are growing up successive generations, the equal of which-is all respects-have never been seen. And at some time, in the years to come, there will be a typical and perfect American face that will be a true index to the typical American mind and character-that will exceed in beauty and grandeur those of the periods of Pericles and Casar.

A Rare Bird.

A prominent Clinch County physician has an owl that roams around loose at his house, and is a terror to cats and mice. Not only is he useful for this, but he is a rare bird, the Doctor having learned his owlship some rare tricks. For instance, he will take the owl and whirl him around and a out in his hands, and will then put him upon the floor or table upon his back, side, or any other position he may see proper, telling the owl to sieep, and he will re-main perfectly quiet. The Doctor can then tell the owl to dream a bad dream and awake frightened, when, after about thirty minutes, the bird will jump up from the table, apparently in a great fright, popping his bill, and showing other signs of alarm.—Savan-

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York. METAL POISON.

I am a coppersmith by trade, and during a series of years my arms (being bare when at work) have absorbed a wonderful amount of metal poison. Having a scrofulous tendency from my youth, the small particles of copper and brass would get into the sores, and by this process the posson was conveyed into my bloos till my whole system became infected. I was treated with old remedles of mercury and fedide potassium. Salivation followed, my teeh are all loose in my head, my digastive organs deranged, and I have been helpless in bed for over a year with mercurial rheumatism. My joints were all swollen, and I lost the use of my arms and legs, and became helpless as an infant.

My sufferings became so intense that it was impossible for me to rest. The doctors advised me to go to the city hospital for treatment. This I could not bear, A friend, who has proved a friend indeed, urged me to try fishift's Specific, believing it would cure me. Others discouraged me, but I secured a few bottles, and have now taken two dozen bottles. The first effect of the medicine was to bring the poison to the sun face, and I broke out all over in running sores. They soon disappeared and my skin cleared off. My hnees, which had become twice their natural size, have resumed their usual size, and are supple as of yore. My arms and hands are all right again, and can use them without pain. The entire disease has left all parts of my body save two ulcers on my wrist, which are healing rapidly. I am weak from long confinement, but I have the use of all my limbs. This medicine is bringing me out of the greatest trial of my life, and I cannot find words sufficient to express my appreciation of its virtues, and the gratitude I feet that I ever heard of it.

MALARIAL POISON.

The drouth in Southwest Georgia last spring dried up the wells, and we ware compelled to use water from the creek on the plantation. The result was that all were troubled with chills and fever. I carried with me several bottles of swiit's Speciet, and as long as I took it, I had perfect health. As soon as I ceased taking it, I, like the rest, was afflicted with chills. When I resumed its us; I was all right again. We have used it in our family as an antidote for malaria porson for two or three years, and have never known it to fall in a single instance.
